Chief Engineer's Report.

In compliance with the law, I respectfully submit my second annual report as Chief Engineer of the Fire Department, giving account of fires and alarms for the past year and condition of apparatus under my charge. We have been highly favored in regard to fires the past year, the Department having been called out but once in sixteen months, and then for a small blaze on Franklin street. The fire was extinguished without assistance from the Department. Damage nominal. A small fire at Mrs. Oakes' on Centre street was put out without an alarm.

On July 7, at 6 P. M., I received a call for assistance from Haverhill, Mass., and at 7.10 we were in Haverhill. The fire was under control when we arrived and our services were not required.

One hose carriage has been purchased and a third company of twenty men has been formed from No. 1. The new company is located at present with No. 1 at the railroad. I think it should be located in the westerly part of the town, if arrangements can be made for its accommodation.

The apparatus under my charge is in good condition and we also have a fair supply of hose.

My acknowledgments are hereby made to the Board of Engineers and officers and members of the Department for their advice and interest manifested in the success of the Department.

Robinson Seminary.

PRINCIPAL'S REPORT.

TO THE HONORABLE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE ROBINSON SEMINARY :

Since I addressed you last March the Seminary has completed one school year and nearly two terms of another. During that time changes have occurred in plans of instruction and corps of teachers : improvements have been made and others have suggested themselves for adoption in the future.

TEACHERS.—In the Christmas vacation Miss Grouard resigned, and Miss Lora W. Lane, a graduate of the Seminary and a member of the Junior class in Wellesley College, was elected her successor.

In January, Miss Edith E. Wiggin, of Arlington, Mass., entered upon her duties as teacher of the new department of Normal Instruction. In the autumn term Miss Helen L. Dutch, of the last graduating class, succeeded Miss Ordway as assistant in the laboratory. With these exceptions the instructors have been the same as during the previous year.

BENEDICTION.

DEPARTMENT OF FRENCH AND GERMAN.—A contemplated change has been made in the study of French. By the former arrangement the study was begun in the fourth year of the course and continued for three years. Thus a considerable amount of time was given to French in the fourth year which was needed for the more rudimentary and preparatory studies. It was believed that with the added year of maturity and discipline, pupils would accomplish as much in two years as had been attained in three. Accordingly the study of French has been put forward from the fourth to the fifth year in the curriculum. As a considerable number of older pupils entered the Seminary last autumn who desired to study French, a beginning class was organized which pupils from every class in the academic department joined. After this year the time now devoted to this mixed class—four hours per week—will be given to a general course in French and German literature with the Senior and Junior classes.

DRAWING AND ART.—The changes in the instruction in this department have been slight. More time is devoted to the study of Art with the Seniors than in former years. A valuable collection of architectural views made on glass for use with the porte-lumiere has been purchased, and a number of plaster casts added to the drawing models.

VISITORS.—I revert to this subject upon which I have written so much in the past, to express my pleasure at the greatly increased number of visitors which the Seminary now receives compared with former years. Since the opening of the present school year in September, nearly four times as many persons have visited our various class and other exercises as in the same length of time in any previous year since my connection with the school. Most of these are teachers and persons interested in education, who come from out of town to see our methods of instruction. But it is gratifying to record that the parents and immediate patrons devote more time to our school than in former years. In this connection I desire to thank the different members of the Board for the encouragement they have given me by devoting so much of their valuable time to our daily work.

LIBRARY.—In conformity to a plan submitted and approved by you several years ago, for the gradual enlargement of our reference library, the following works have been purchased during the past year: Poems, by Celia Thaxter; Works of R. W. Emerson, 4 volumes; Washington and his Country, John Fiske; Shakspeare's Works, edited by Richard Grant White, 3 volumes; Studies in Shakspeare, Richard Grant White; The Spy, J. Fenimore Cooper; Fifteen Decisive Battles of the World, Creasey; Boy Travellers in Egypt, Col. Knox; Lectures on the Science and Art of Education, Joseph Payne; Methods of Instruction, James P. Wickersham; Early Education, James Currie; Primary Object Lessons, N. A. Calkins.

Miss Annie E. Killam, a former principal, presented the library with 8 numbers of the magazine "Education." In addition the Seminary is a subscriber for the "New England Journal of Education" and "Common School Education," the numbers of which are kept on file on the reading table in the Normal department.

APPARATUS AND IMPROVEMENTS IN THE BUILDING.—A smaller sum has been expended for apparatus than usual, because the generous expenditures of several years have placed the equipments of the school upon a much improved basis. A large reading table was needed in the Normal room. As the table formerly used upon the chapel platform met that need, the table was placed in the new room and a tasteful pulpit substituted for it in the chapel. The convenience of the chapel has been enhanced by enlarging the platform. Chairs, a small table and other furniture have been purchased for the new school room, and blocks, charts and reference books provided for the use of the Normal school. A White's manikin has been added to the equipments for teaching Physiology. A large collection of small photographs has been obtained and neatly mounted, to illustrate Ancient History. The chapel and school room opposite are now in great need of shades or inside blinds. The windows in both rooms are entirely lacking any means of controlling the admission of light, and the consequent glare at some seasons and times of the day is painful to the eyes.

NORMAL AND TRAINING DEPARTMENT.—The need of such a course of study and discipline as the new department offers in our curriculum, as well as its scope and purpose, are so well known to you that I will not consider them at length in this report.

In accordance with plans approved by you last autumn, at the beginning of the winter term, January 2, a normal class was organized under the instruction of Miss Wiggin. Eleven young ladies, all graduates from our regular course, enrolled themselves as members: Nellie E. Adams, Eva L. Brown, Emma L. Chase, Mary H. Fearn, Bessie P. Grouard, Alice F. Mace, Carrie E. Mace, Martha C. Moulton, Gertrude E. Smith, Elizabeth Stevens, Florence E. Wood.

Stated in general terms, the work for the first term includes recitations in the psychology of education, history and methods of teaching, and practice of methods of instruction in primary grades. The young ladies constitute themselves a class for primary instruction and are taught by one of their number. On three days of the week, classes of small children are received from the public schools, and are taught by one of the young ladies, in the presence of the other members of the class. The exercises are subsequently discussed and criticised by both the class and Miss Wiggin. The subjects thus taught are reading, number, writing, drawing, color, etc. In the second term the psychology and history of education will be continued and methods in higher primary and grammar schools considered. In the third term methods in grammar schools will be continued and the studies taught in grammar schools carefully reviewed. Instruction in school laws, hygiene and other practical matters will be given.

It is intended that the first class shall be graduated at the end of the fall term next December. All who satisfactorily complete the prescribed course will receive a diploma. Every effort will be made by the Seminary to assist the graduates in securing desirable situations, and school officers in employing worthy teachers.

The new department has begun its career under very favorable auspices. It is fortunate to have enrolled in its first class so many scholarly, enthusiastic and earnest young women. And the class is fortunate to receive instruction from so skilful and accomplished a teacher as Miss Wiggin.

The department was founded primarily for the benefit of all pupils who should avail themselves of its opportunities. But it is certain also to redound to the advancement of the institution. Already the existence and presence of this post-graduate class is felt as an inspiration in every lower department of the school. The plan is a novel one and its adoption has attracted quite wide and favorable attention throughout the state toward our school.

The edition of its catalogue published only three months ago—a number amply sufficient formerly for a whole year, is already nearly exhausted, such a demand is there for information in regard to the Seminary. Such inquiry cannot fail ultimately to be an advantage to the institution.

The work in all the other departments, which I have not had occasion to mention specifically in this report, is being carried forward with the fidelity and success that have characterized them in the past.

The year just closed has been more than ordinarily favorable to the growth of the Public Library. It ends with more than six thousand, five hundred volumes upon the Library shelves. A very large proportion of these are works of permanent value, as well as current interest. In a former report, the Committee were able to express the opinion, based in part on a knowledge of other town libraries, that our own collection includes an exceptionally small percentage of printed lumber, with scarcely a trace of utter trash.

What was true then, is emphatically so now. For the first time, during the past year, were the benefits of the Merrill Fund fully realized ; since, until its beginning, a part of the bequest was kept at a low rate of interest until an investment both profitable and safe could be found for it. Both these ends having been met, the Committee has been enabled to comply with the wishes of the donor by purchasing at least two hundred volumes of standard merit. In the meanwhile, all the available funds of the town's appropriation have been expended on "popular" books.

Using the word popular in its accepted application to the lighter varieties of reading matter, it is only fair to say that the Merrill purchases, if generally more solid, will seldom be found dull by the mass of intelligent readers, and care has been taken to avoid selections from which only a very limited class could derive benefit. Still, the wants of the numerous teachers, and older scholars in the Academy, Female Seminary and High School, and those of the members of the Chautauqua and other literary clubs, have received reasonable consideration. The Committee has aimed to have each department of history, art, science, theoretical and applied, etc., represented by at least one or two works of merit. Studiously disposed persons, of whom the number is constantly increasing, have avowed surprise at the wealth of authorities which the Library is beginning to afford.

The statistics of circulation, etc., have not been kept as minutely as is the custom in some libraries, where the presence of several assistants gives leisure for the compilation of elaborate records. The Committee is able to say in round numbers, however, that since July 1, 1888, about 6,600 volumes have been put into circulation, and that 530 names of readers are at present on the register.

We have thus far delayed mentioning the truly princely gift of the heirs of the late Thomas Conner in the form of wholly complete files of the News-Letter from its first publication in 1831 up to March, 1888. As records of our town history for over half a century, they are simply invaluable. In compliance with a vote of the town, they have been properly bound, and the volume for 1888, which includes a very full account of Exeter's quarter-millennial, will soon be added to the collection.

In addition to the News-Letters, the Conner bequest includes several odd volumes of the papers issued in this town previous to the establishment of the News-Letter. The files of these are not perfect, but they have been supplemented by other files, the gift—with many valuable and rare pamphlets and papers—of the Hon. Charles H. Bell. When these have been thoroughly sorted and combined, few towns will be better provided than Exeter with materials for local history between 1810 and 1888. There is no doubt that in many a garret accumulations of similar ephemeral literature are now gathering dust. Were they duly collected with other publications of their period, and placed on the Library shelves, they might prove interesting and valuable to many students.

Some new shelf room was added to the Library about a year ago, but it will soon prove insufficient for the rapidly accumulating volumes. It is possible that a place for additional shelving may be found in the present apartment, yet it is hard to see where it could conveniently be placed. The adjoining room, which has been occupied by the Natural History Society, might be utilized as a place of deposit for the books least frequently called for. But when the best is done, there would remain that danger of fire, which is the possible fate of the Old Court House, as it was of its predecessor. Every month more and more persons visit the Library to consult it without taking away books. For these there is, and seemingly can be, no accommodation in the present quarters. The erection of a substantial fireproof building is urgently demanded, but this must be the gift of individuals, not of the town.

The Committee would ask for the usual appropriation of $500.
